Report of the Event:

The multiplier event for Rural GCE project took place in Ruse, Bulgaria, at a local retirement club, where people above the age of 65, living in rural areas around Ruse gather occasionally for social events. In total 37 people participated in the organized multiplier event.

The majority of the participants were adults, living in rural areas, however there was also one educational expert, one representative of the Ruse municipality, and 2 representatives of NGOs working in the field of adult education.

The main objective of the Multiplier event was presenting the results of the Rural GCE project with the main focus on the Handbook and the learning platform.

During the event we presented the main findings from the survey reports and the needs analysis, the research report, the training methodology and each of the learning modules. A lot attention was given to Module 3: Media literacy and internet safety as the majority of the participants were above the age of 65 with little digital skills. Some expressed their opinion that the topics are interesting and useful for all ages, and this could motivate their children or grandchildren to assist them with taking the online course.

All participants agreed that the topics included in the Handbook are important and they admitted that the modules provide new knowledge and skills to them. Some made suggestions to organize a study group where they can study together the learning content and be assisted when they have additional questions or trouble when using computers.

Overall, the participants were happy with the event, they find it was interesting and useful. Some of them expressed their wish that the event was longer and that it includes some real-life training on the topics. The participants have found the content of the learning units very useful and that the provided information was clear.

We invited the participants to register in the platform and have a look through the learning course in Bulgarian language.
